FOREWORD

This booklet is designed for upper beginner Indonesian students of English. It deals with grammar and vocabulary, focusing on the type of errors Indonesian students make when learning English (e.g. writing German rather than Germany because, in Indonesian, Germany is Jerman). For many, it is a review of what they know already (or think they know!) but, in all the units, the writer assumes students have ‘forgotten’ what they know or knew.

This booklet is best seen as part of an intensive 60-80 hour course, including presentations, more specific vocabulary, listening, group, pair work, and vocabulary games, with the aim that, at the end of the course, students will be more confident in expressing themselves in English and will express themselves more correctly in English with a broadened vocabulary.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

I have been a teacher all my professional life, first in England, and now, for 21 years, in Indonesia. One of the joys of teaching is that I am never bored. Students change from day to day and there is a wide, and fascinating, variety of characters.

While teaching is at times tiring and demanding, the benefits far outweigh the occasional downsides. One happy (and frequent event) is when past pupils come up to me and say, "Hello, Michael, remember me?" So far, I do, but not the names!!

A handwritten signature in blue ink that reads "Mike Earley". The signature is written in a cursive, slightly slanted style.

Michael. A. Earley, MA

3. A clause and a phrase

A clause has at least a subject + verb, but is not a sentence if it does not express a complete idea. 'or I will leave you' is a clause but not a sentence because it does not express a complete idea. I love you is a sentence which has only one clause because it expresses a complete idea. I love you and I will always love you is a sentence which has two clauses. These clauses are joined together by the word and (a conjunction).

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

Two clauses can be joined with a pronoun. An example is I live in London, which is in England. Here, I live in London is the first clause, and which is in England is the second clause. The word which is a pronoun which takes the place of London. It joins the two clauses. A sentence can contain many clauses, but sentences with fewer clauses are easier to understand.

A phrase is a group of more than one word which go together naturally but is not a sentence or a clause.

Activity 6: Indicate which of the following are clauses, sentences or phrases.

1. I am not happy
2. In the morning
3. I like your cat but I hate your dog
4. because he was aggressive
5. I drink beer which is very strong
6. I wake up early in the morning
7. because he did not listen to me
8. while I was waiting
9. on a good day
10. John, who is 30, is a teacher

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

4. Conjunctions.

- 1) Conjunctions connect thoughts, ideas, actions, nouns, clauses, adjectives, adverbs and so on.

Martha went to the market and bought fresh vegetables.

In this sentence, the conjunction and connects the two things Martha did.

Martha went to the market and I went to the hardware store.

Here, and connects two sentences, preventing too many short sentences.

- 2) Conjunctions can also support choices and lists.

I can't decide between the blue shirt and the red shirt.

We barbecued hamburgers, hot dogs, and sausages.

- 3) When using a conjunction, make sure that the parts which are being joined by the conjunction have a parallel structure (i.e. that they use the same verb forms, etc.)

I worked quickly yet am careful.

Am careful is not in the same form as quickly; this creates faulty parallelism. The verbs need to be in the same form.

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

I worked quickly yet carefully.

The two adverbs modify the verb worked.

I am quick yet careful.

The two adjectives modify the pronoun.

UNIT 2: PRESENT SIMPLE VERB TENSE

We use the present simple verb tense to talk about things in general. We use it to say that something happens all the time or repeatedly, something is a fact, or something is true in general. It also expresses strong opinion.

Note the positive, negative and question forms.

- I always drink water in the morning.
- I don't drink water in the morning.
- Do you drink water in the morning?

N.B. The 3rd person singular is different. See below.

- He/It/She/The cat always drinks water in the morning.
- He/It/She/The cat does not (doesn't) always drink water in the morning.
- Does he/it/she/the cat always drink water in the morning?

The 3rd person singular does not mean only he, she or it. It is any singular subject which is not you or I.

Examples:

- My wife usually stays at home at weekends.
- The moon goes round the earth.

In the following example do is also the main verb:

- What do you do? (= What's your job?) 'I am a pilot.'

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

- Let's go out now. It isn't raining any more. (not 'it doesn't rain')
- (At a picnic) Hello, Jane. Are you enjoying the picnic? (not 'do you enjoy')

But the action is not necessarily happening at the time of speaking. For example: Tim and Jill are having a coffee break at work.

Tim says: I'm reading a really good book at the moment.

Tom is not reading the book at the time of speaking.

He means that he has started it but not finished it yet.

He is in the middle of reading it.

We also use the present continuous when we talk about changes happening around now:

- Crime around the world is rising very fast. (not 'rises')
- Football is getting more physical. (not 'gets')

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

Exception to the rule!!

I always do and I'm always doing

- Usually we say 'I always do something' (= I do it every time):
- I always go to work by car. (not 'I'm always going')

You can also say 'I am always doing something', but this has a different meaning. It is rather negative. 'I'm always losing things' does not mean that I lose things every time. It means that I lose things too often.

Example: He's always complaining.

Activity 7: Finish B's sentences. Use always –ing

1 A: I'm afraid I've lost my key again.

B: Not again! You are always losing your key.

2 A: The motor bike has broken down again.

B: That motor bike is useless! It .....

4 A: Oh, I've left the lights on again.

B: Typical! You .....

5 A: I am sorry but could I borrow some money?

B: No, you can't. You.....

UNIT 4: ADJECTIVES AND ADVERBS

Many adverbs are made from an adjective + -ly:

Not all words ending -ly are adverbs. Some adjectives end in -ly, for example, friendly, lively, elderly, lonely, lovely.

Some adverbs are spelled the same as the adjective, for example, fast, hard. Some adverbs are irregular, for example, adjective 'good', adverb 'well'.

Adjectives (quick/slow etc) tell us about a noun. We use adjectives before nouns and after some verbs, especially to be: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Tom is a careless driver. (not 'a carelessly driver')</li><li>• We didn't go out because of the heavy snow. (not 'the heavily snow')</li><li>• I was happy that I wrote a good exam.</li></ul>	Adverbs (quickly/slowly etc.) tell us about a verb. <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Tom drove carelessly along the narrow road (not drove careless')</li><li>• We didn't go out because it was snowing heavily. (not 'snowing heavy')</li><li>• I was happy that I did so well in the exam. (not 'did so good')</li></ul>
--	---

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

We also use adverbs before adjectives and other adverbs.

very expensive                      (adverb + adjective)

incredibly fast                      (adverb + adverb)

- It's a very expensive restaurant but the food is not very good .
- Oh, I'm terribly sorry. I didn't mean to trip you up. (not 'terrible sorry')
- John learns languages incredibly quickly.
- The driving test was surprisingly easy.

You can also use an adverb before a past participle (injured/ broken/ written etc.):

Activity 1: Complete the sentences with adverbs. The first letter(s) of each adverb are given.

UNIT 5: PAST SIMPLE VERB TENSE

Very often the past simple ends in –ed (regular verbs):

- I live in Jakarta now. Before that I lived in London.
- I picked John for my team but he decided he would not join me.
- I study at UI now. Years ago, I studied at ITB.
- She plays the piano now but, previously, played the drums.

But many verbs are irregular. The past simple does not end in –ed.

- write → wrote      - Tolstoy wrote many books.
 see → saw      - We saw a shooting star last night.
 go → went      - I went to the theater last night.
 shut → shut      - It was cold, so I shut the door.

In questions and negatives we use did/didn't + infinitive (enjoy/see/go etc.):

I	hated		you	hate?		I		hate
she	sang	did	she	sing?		she	didn't	sing
they	went		they	go?		they		go

- A: Did you visit your father last week??
 B: Yes, I visited him at home.
- 'When did John decide to get married. About two weeks ago.
- Her boyfriend didn't ask her out to the cinema so she didn't go.
- 'Did you have time to meet the president?' 'No, I didn't.'

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

Be careful when do is the main verb in the sentence:

- What did you do at the weekend? (not ‘what did you at the weekend’)

The past of be (am/is/are) is was/were:

Note that we do not use did in negatives and questions with was/were:

- I was happy because they were early.
- Was the food delicious when you were in Lombok?
- They weren’t able to sit because they were too excited.

Activity 1: Choose a suitable verb from the box below; change it to the past tense and fill in the blanks.

cancel be feel go say study make go meet have be meet realize be be

John’s second lesson _____ fun. His teacher _____ happy and the subject _____ interesting. He _____ his girlfriend Rona and they _____ plans for the evening. His next lesson _____ much more difficult as he _____ a test but he was confident as he had revised a lot. At lunch, however, he _____ his friends and _____ he had made a lot of mistakes in the test. He _____ back to the university to meet his lecturer. The lecturer _____ “Don’t worry!” so John _____ better. He _____ home and _____ very hard for his test next day. He _____ his meeting with his girlfriend.

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

Activity 2: Put one of these verbs in each sentence:

5. Don..... down a hole in the road this morning and ..... his arm.
6. Tim ..... the ball to John, who .....it.
7. Ann ..... a lot of money yesterday. She ..... a handbag which .....£500.

UNIT 6: QUESTION FORMS

We usually make questions by changing the word order.

In present simple questions, we use do/does:

- Do you live next to the station?
- Does he live near to you?
- What time does the match begin? (not 'What time begins.....?')

In past simple questions, we use did:

- Did you sell the car?
- Did I meet you yesterday?
- How did the match finish?

In present continuous questions, we put to be before the subject:

- Am I still working for you?
- Is he still sleeping?
- Are we still meeting tomorrow?

In past continuous questions, we put to be before the subject:

- Was he listening to the radio yesterday?
- Were you writing a letter last week?

If the main verb is to be, note the following.

- Is he happy? Are they sad? Am I rich?

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

But do not use do/does/did in questions if who/what/which is the subject of the sentence.

- Who wants something to drink? (not 'Who does want')
- What happened to John last week? (not 'What did happen')
- Which train goes to Surabaya? (not 'Which train does go')

However, you use do/does/did if Who/What/Which?Where are the objects of the sentence.

- Which dress did she choose?
- Who do you wish to interview?

Indirect questions

- a) In indirect questions, the first clause can be in a question or in a statement form, but the second clause must be in a statement form.
- b) If the first clause is a question, a ‘?’ is added at the end. If the first clause is not a question, then the sentence ends with a full stop.

Examples:

Did he ask you if you wanted to go to church?

He asked me if I wanted to go to church.

Activity 4: Correct the sentences below if they are wrong.

- 1) He asked was I going to the concert?

UNIT 7: MODAL AUXILIARY VERBS

The main modal auxiliary verbs are: can, could, am able to, may, might, will, would, shall, should, must, have to. Modal auxiliaries are used with other verbs to add meaning.

Can, could and (be) able to

We use can to say that something is possible or that somebody has the ability to do something.

We use can + infinitive without 'to'

- We can see the mountain from our front room window.
- Can you speak French?
- I can meet you any time you are free.

The negative is can't (= cannot):

- I'm afraid I can't come to the party on Friday.

Remember:

In the present tense third person singular, if there is a modal, the verb does not take an 's'.

Incorrect-He can swims.

Correct-He can swim.

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

But can has only two forms, can (present) and could (past). So sometimes it is necessary to use (be) able to .....Compare:

- I can't sleep.
but I haven't been able to sleep recently. (can has no present perfect)
- Tom can come today.
but Tom might/will be able to come tomorrow. (

Could, was able to, and managed to

We also use could to say that somebody had the general ability or permission to do something:

- My grandfather could speak three languages.
- We were on our holidays. We could do what we wanted. (= we were allowed to do....)

We use could for general ability, but if we are talking about what happened in a particular situation, we use was/were able to... or managed to.... (not could):

The fire spread through the ship quickly but everybody was able to escape. *Or....*everybody managed to escape. (but not 'could escape')

We use could especially with:

see    hear   smell   taste   feel   remember   understand

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

- When we went opened the door, we could smell burning.
- She spoke French very quickly, but I could understand her.
- Even though it was dark, I could see her.

Activity 1: Use can if possible; otherwise use (be) able to.

1. George has traveled to many countries. He...can.. speak three languages.
2. I haven't ..been able to... sleep much recently.
3. Sandra..... drive but she hasn't passed the test yet.
4. I've never..... speak another language.
5. I used to ..... sleep at any time but now I can't.
6. Ask a policeman for directions. He might ..... help you.

Activity 2: Answer to the questions with was/were able to.

1 A: Did everybody escape from the flood?

B: Yes. Although it was a bad flood, everybody ..was able to escape...

2 A: Was it difficult to find Ann's house?

B: No. Ann gave us good directions and we ..... it.

3 A: Did you do your run last night?

B: Yes. I had no homework, so ..... it.

Must and Have to

We use must and have to to say that it is necessary to do something.

There is a difference between must and have to and sometimes this is important: Must is personal and have to is impersonal.

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

- Mary is sick in hospital. You must visit her.
- You have to drive on the left in Indonesia.

Use must to talk about the present or future, but not the past and not after another modal:

- We must go home now.
- We must go home tomorrow. (but not 'We must go home yesterday')

You can use have to in all forms. For example:

- I had to go to the dentist (past)
- I might have to go to the hospital. (infinitive after might)
- NOT I might must to the dentist.

In questions and negative sentences with have to, we normally use do/does/did:

- What do I have to do to get a drink? (not 'What have I to do?')
- Karen doesn't have to work on Mondays.

Mustn't and don't have to are completely different:

You mustn't do something = it is necessary that you do not do it (so, don't do it):

- You must keep it a secret.
You mustn't tell anyone. (= don't tell anyone)

You don't have to do something = you don't need to do it (but you can if you want):

- You can tell me if you want but you don't have to tell me. (you don't need to tell me)

UNIT 8: PAST CONTINUOUS VERB TENSE

We use the past continuous to say that somebody was in the middle of doing something at a certain time in the past. It is also used in interrupted actions. Examples;

- While I was sleeping, the phone rang.
- What were you doing at 10 o'clock last night? I was sleeping.

Compare the past continuous (I was doing) and past simple (I did):

Past continuous (in the middle of an action) <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• I was driving home when I met Dave. (= in the middle of driving home)</li><li>• Ann was cooking when the phone rang.</li></ul>	Past simple (complete action) <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• I drove home after the party last night. (= all the way, completely)</li><li>• Ann cooked a lot when she lost her job</li></ul>
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• When Mary arrived, we were playing cards (= we had already started playing cards before Mary arrived.)</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• When Mary arrived, we played cards. (= first Mary arrived and then we played cards.)</li></ul>

There are some verbs (for example, know/want/believe) that are not normally used in the continuous tense:

- We were best friends. We had known each since school. (not, we were knowing)

A	B	C	D
Past until now- present perfect continuous normally	In the past-not about when- present perfect simple	Incomplete time -present perfect simple	A recent event with a current effect-usually present perfect simple
I have been living in BSD for 14 years (I still live in            BSD).  BUT I lived in BSD for 14 years (I            don't live in            BSD now).	I have visited Spain (in the            past, not about            when).  BUT I visited Spain last year (about            when).	I have written 3 letters this morning (it is            still the            morning).  BUT I wrote 3 letters this morning (it is            now the            afternoon or            evening).	He has just arrived. ### Present perfect continuous and simple tenses

Study these example situations:

Ann's clothes are covered in paint. She has been painting the ceiling. Has been painting is the present perfect continuous. We are interested in the activity. It does not matter whether something has been finished or not. In this example, the activity (painting the ceiling) has not been finished.	The ceiling was white. Now it is blue. She has painted the ceiling. Has painted is the present perfect simple Here, the important thing is that something has been finished. 'He painted' is a completed action. We are interested in the result of the activity (the painted ceiling), not in the activity itself.

Compare these examples:

<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• My hands are very dirty. I've been repairing the car.</li><li>• She's been smoking too much recently. a) You can normally use either the continuous or simple with live and work:

- John has been living / has lived in London for a long time.
- How long have you been working / have you worked here?

But we use the simple with always:

- John has always lived in London. (not 'has always been living')

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

b) You can use the continuous or the simple for action repeated over a long period.

- I've been collecting / I have collected stamps since I was a child.

UNIT 10: FUTURE VERB TENSES

There are 4 main forms of the future:

Will	Going to + verb 1	Present continuous	Present simple
Will is used for promises and offers.	Going to is used for decisions already made.	The present continuous is used for future fixed arrangements.	The present simple is used for timetabled schedules.
Will is used for decisions made at the time of speaking.	Going to is used for future predictions based upon present evidence.
Will is used for future predictions.

N.B. After maybe, perhaps, possibly, probably or I think, will is normally used to talk about the future. Might is used instead of will to indicate uncertainty.

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

I will and I'm going to

Sue is talking to Helen:  SUE: Let's have a party.  HELEN: That's a great idea. We'll invite lots of people.	Will ('ll): We use will when we decide to do something at the time of speaking. The speaker has not decided beforehand. The party is a new idea.
Later that day, Helen meets Dave:  HELEN: Sue and I have decided to have a party. We're going to invite lots of people.  DAVE : That's great!	We use (be) going to when we have already decided to do something. Helen had already decided to invite lots of people before she spoke to Dave.

Compare:

- 'George phoned while you were out.'
- 'OK. I'll phone him back.'

But

- 'George phoned while you were out.'
- Yes, I know. I'm going to phone him back.'

And

- 'Ann is in hospital.'
- Oh really? I didn't know. I'll go and visit her.'

but

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

- ‘Ann is in hospital.’
- Yes, I know. I’m going to visit her tomorrow.’

Future happening and situations (predicting the future)

Sometimes there is not much difference between will and going to.

For example, you can say:

- I think the weather will be nice later.
- I think the weather is going to be nice later.

When we say ‘something is going to happen’, we know (or think) this because of the situation now. For example:

- Look at these black clouds. It’s going to rain. (we can see the clouds now)
- I feel terrible. I think I’m going to be sick. ( I feel terrible now)

Do not use will in situations like these.

In other situations, it is safer to use will:

- Tom will probably arrive at about 8 o’clock.
- I think Ann will like the present we bought for her.

Activity 1: Complete the sentences using will (‘ll) or going to.

1 A: Why are you turning on the television?

B: ..I’m going to watch.. the news. (I/watch)

UNIT 11: COMPARATIVES AND SUPERLATIVES

We use comparative and superlative adjectives to make comparisons between people or things. Comparative adjectives compare one person/thing with another. We usually make comparisons with than.

The Carpathians are higher than the Apennines.

Superlative adjectives compare one person/thing with several other people/things (more than two). Use the before the superlative adjective.

The Alps are the highest mountains in Europe.

Comparatives have rules:

- 1) One syllable adjectives end in -er.
- 2) Three or more syllable adjectives have more + the adjective.
- 3) Two syllable adjectives have no set rules.
- 4) Adjectives ending in consonant+y, e.g. heavy become heavier.
(British English)
- 5) Some words double the end consonant (e.g. big becomes bigger).
- 6) Some words are irregular (e.g. good becomes better).

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

Superlatives have rules:

- 1) One syllable adjectives have the + adjective + est.
- 2) Three or more syllable adjectives have the most + the adjective.
- 3) Two syllable adjectives have no set rules.
- 4) Adjectives ending in consonant+y (e.g. heavy) have the before them and end in -iest (e.g. heaviest). (British English)
- 5) Some words double the end consonant and have the before them and end in -est (e.g. big becomes biggest).
- 6) Some words are irregular (e.g. good becomes best)

Note the different ways of forming the comparative and superlative adjectives:

	Adjective	Comparative	Superlative
one-syllable adjectives - ending in –e - ending in –y	cheap strange dry	cheaper stranger drier	cheapest strangest driest
most two-syllable adjectives - ending in –y - ending in –ow - ending in –er	peaceful pretty narrow clever	more peaceful prettier narrower cleverer	most peaceful prettiest narrowest cleverest adjectives of three or more syllables	popular mysterious	more popular more mysterious	most popular most mysterious

Second conditional- unlikely, impossible	If I won the lottery, I would buy a car.	If I win the lottery, I will buy a car.	If I win the lottery, I would buy a car.

Could and might are also possible:

- If you took more exercise, you might feel healthier. (= it is possible that you would feel healthier)
- If it stopped raining, we could go out. (= we would be able to go out)

Do not use when instead of if:

- They would be offended if we didn't accept their invitation. (not 'when we didn't')

- 4 A: Is Sally going to apply for the job?
B: No. (not/get it) If.....

UNIT 14: ARTICLES

English has two articles: the and a/an. The is used to refer to specific or particular nouns; a/an is used to modify non-specific or non-particular nouns. We call the the definite article and a/an the indefinite article. For example, if I say, "Let's read the newspaper," I mean a specific newspaper. If I say, "Let's read a newspaper," I mean any newspaper rather than a specific newspaper.

Indefinite Articles: a and an

"A" and "an" signal that the noun modified is indefinite, referring to any member of a group. For example:

- "My son wants a cat for Christmas." This refers to any cat. We don't know which cat because we haven't found the cat yet.
- "When I was at the zoo, I saw a tiger!" Here, we're talking about a single, non-specific thing, in this case a tiger. There are probably several tigers at the zoo.

Remember, too, that in English, the indefinite articles are used to indicate membership in a group

- I am a teacher. (I am a member of a large group known as teachers.)
- Brian is an Irishman. (Brian is a member of the people known as Irish.)

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

Definite Article: the

The definite article is used before singular and plural nouns when the noun is specific or particular. The signals that the noun is definite, that it refers to a particular member of a group. For example:

- "The dog that bit me is dangerous." Here, we're talking about a specific dog.

Non-count Nouns

The is omitted if we are talking generally.

Experience is the best teacher.

BUT: The experience I had in my first job helped me later on.

Geographical use of the

There are some specific rules for using the with geographical nouns.

Do not use the before:

- names of most countries/territories: Italy, Spain, Chile; however, the Netherlands, the United Arab Emirates, the Philippines, the United States (because of pluralisation)
- names of cities, towns, or states: Paris, London, Amsterdam
- names of streets or roads: Orchard Road, Oxford Street
- names of lakes : Lake Toba, Lake Erie except with a group of lakes like the Great Lakes
- names of mountains: Mount Everest, Mount Kilimanjaro except with ranges of mountains like the Andes or the Rockies

- Names of sports: cricket, hockey, football

UNIT 18: STATE AND NON-STATE (DYNAMIC) VERBS

If a verb describes a state, we do not usually use the continuous tense.

State verbs generally fall into 4 categories:

- Emotion: love, hate, want, need
- Possession: have, own, belong
- Sense: see, hear, smell, taste, feel
- Thought: know, believe, remember

However, some verbs can be both state and non-state (dynamic)

‘be’ is usually a state verb, but, when it is used in the continuous tense, it means ‘behaving’ or ‘acting’.

you are stupid = it’s part of your personality you are being stupid = only now, not usually ‘have’ (state) = own/possess: I have a car.

‘have’ (dynamic) = part of an expression

I’m having a party / a picnic / a bath / a good time / a break.

‘see’ (state) = see with your eyes / understand

I see (understand) what you mean.

I can see her now; she’s coming along the road.

‘see’ (dynamic) = meet / have a relationship with

I am seeing John for a meal on Monday.

I’ve been seeing my boyfriend for three years.

‘think’ (state) = have an opinion: I think that coffee is great.

UNIT 19: LINKING VERBS

Generally an adverb rather than an adjective will come directly after a verb because the adverb is describing the verb.

She spoke nicely.

Subj. Verb. Adv.

In this example, the verb spoke is followed by the adverb nicely. This adverb describes the verb spoke. It tells how she spoke. However, you must be very careful if the verb is a linking verb. A linking verb is followed by an adjective rather than an adverb.

She looks nice.

Subj. L.V. Adj.

In this example, the linking verb looks is followed by the adjective nice. This adjective describes the subject she. It gives more details about the subject.

You should be sure to use an adjective rather than an adverb after a linking verb. Be careful, however, because the adjective that goes with the linking verb does not always directly follow the linking verb.

She seems unusually nice today.

Subj. L.V. Adv. Adj. Adv.

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

In this example, the adjective nice, which describes the subject she, is itself described by the adverb unusually. From this example, you should notice that it is possible to have an adverb directly after the linking verb, but only if the adverb describes an adjective that follows. Linking Verbs: appear, be, become, feel, look, prove, seem, smell, taste, sound

UNIT 21: MUCH, MANY, A LOT OF, LOTS OF: QUANTIFIERS

We use the quantifiers much, many, a lot of, lots of to talk about quantities, amounts and degree. We can use them with a noun (as a determiner) or without a noun (as a pronoun).

Much, Many with a Noun

We use much with singular uncountable nouns and many with plural nouns:

I haven't got much change. I've only got a ten euro note.

Are there many campsites near you?

Questions and negatives

We usually use much and many with questions (?) and negatives (-):

Is there much unemployment in that area?

How many eggs are in this cake?

Do you think many people will come?

It was pouring with rain but there wasn't much wind.

There aren't many women priests.

Affirmatives

In affirmative clauses we sometimes use many in a more formal style:

He had heard many stories about Yanto and knew he was a troublemaker.

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

In informal styles, we prefer to use lots of or a lot of:

I went shopping and spent a lot of money.

Summary:

Interrogative	Negative	Affirmative
How many books are there?	There aren't many .	There are a lot .

		I've got a lot of money.
		I've got lots of money.

I feel much calmer now I know she's safe. (much calmer than I felt before)

COURSE BOOKLET – 2nd Edition

She's walking much more slowly since her operation. (much more slowly than before)

Too Much, Too Many with a Noun

We often use too before much and many. It means 'more than necessary'. We can use too much before an uncountable noun and too many before a plural noun, or without a noun when the noun is obvious:

I bought too much food. We had to throw some of it away.

There are too many cars on the road. More people should use public transport.

So Much, So Many with a Noun

We use so rather than very before much and many in affirmative clauses to emphasise a very large quantity of something:

He has so much money! Not: ~~He has very much money!~~

There were so many jobs to do.

As Much As, As Many As

When we want to make comparisons connected with quantity, we use as much as and as many as:

the English poet John Keats loved making friends with younger people. He always tried to think of ways of starting a conversation with any young person he happened to meet. One day, Keats was writing a poem by a river when a young boy ran past him. The boy had been swimming in the river and was completely soaked, dripping water everywhere he walked. Keats saw the boy, picked up his sheet of blotting paper and tore off a small bit. He then held the bit out to the boy and asked him whether he would like to dry himself with it.

This booklet is designed for upper beginner Indonesian students of English. It deals with grammar and vocabulary, focusing on the type of errors Indonesian students make when learning English (e.g. writing German rather than Germany because, in Indonesian, Germany is Jerman). For many, it is a review of what they know already (or think they know!) but, in all the units, the writer assumes students have 'forgotten' what they know or knew.

This booklet is best seen as part of an intensive 60-80 hour course, including presentations, more specific vocabulary, listening, group, pair work, and vocabulary games, with the aim that, at the end of the course, students will be more confident in expressing themselves in English and will express themselves more correctly in English with a broadened vocabulary.
