MANUSCRIPT DETAILS

TITLE: The Effect of Sustainable Supply Chain towards Sustainability Performance Mediated by Joint Efforts and Sharing Activities: Evidence Bali Farmer Groups

ABSTRACT:

This research aims to analyze the influence of sustainable supply chains on the performance of farmer groups in the province of Bali, Indonesia. The authors focus on mediating variables that were Joint Efforts and Sharing Activities based on resource dependence theory.

This research data used observations of 214 farmer groups in Bali Province with PLS-SEM analysis.

The critical findings of this study are as follows: (1) sustainable supply chain has a direct effect on sustainability performance; (2) joint efforts and sharing activities concurrently partially mediate the link between sustainable supply chain and sustainability performance. In explicit, farmers' sharing activities are a more vital mediating variable than joint efforts in the researched linkage.

Joint efforts and the sharing of activities have an essential role in supply chain development that encourages farmer groups to collaborate with other supply chain parties in order to achieve sustainability performance.

Sustainable development is the primary goal of the organization, but problems occur in the horticultural supply chain, which is based on economic, environmental and social aspects.
